ROSECRANS BEFORE THE BATTLE.—The correspondent of the New York Herald, writing of the battle of Chicamauga, says:

The General, who had been up all night, though seriously ill, indefatigable as ever, had donned what his staff call "his fighting coat" among the private soldiers. He had early slung the canteen of his orderly around his own neck, and this, said his staff, who had watched and studied his manners, meant "fight." He was to me that morning an interesting study, for I had found him in a new character. He has three distinct characters, which it requires three different circumstances reveal. In garrison, as at Murfreesboro, lively, good natured, pleasant and agreeable, fond of social games and conversation, he had grown painfully less to one who approached him with reverence for him as a great warrior; for he could see no traits of it. In movements—during his manœuvres I mean—quick, lively, yet severe, his nerves strung to their greatest tension, and somewhat disposed to be excited over his plans and calculations, he creates in the beholder a curiosity as to his real nature, and one gets bewildered in seeing the opposing traits of the man.

But on the morning of the 19th, when is was evident that everything was narrowed down to an engagement, his manner assumed a rigid dignity that was painful. He spoke in low tones, neither soft, nor pleasant, nor harsh, nor rough. His nerves become solidified, and he is a man of iron. He sees every-thing and notices nothing. He stares and says nothing. You speak, and he looks at you for a moment and then turns away. All instinctively felt on that morning that Rosey

I shall never believe that Rosecrans or homas entered into the first battle of the Chickamauga with that degree of confidence which should have been felt by them. There appeared to be something over which Roseblanches at nothing, look black.

GUERILLAS IN KENTUCKY .- We have a rehundred guerillas made their appearance yes-terday at a point a few miles back of Bran-denburg, Ky. They had made no demonstrations on the town. We also learn that a considerable body of guerillas were seen some ten miles back of Hawesville on Sunday evening. These reports may prove untrue, but we get them from a pretty direct source.

able information that a considerable number of guerillas have crossed the Tennessee river near Fort Heiman, coming north. The number-has been reported as high as 5,000, which is probably an exaggeration. There is no doubt, however, that there are movements now being made by these roving bands of thieves and murderers, who, hoping to take advantage of the exigencies of the service which calls all our available forces in Tennessee and Kentucky to the front, are concentrating their forces, in the hope of making a successful foray into Kentucky, or even across the Ohio

But now there is no doubt danger is threatening Southwestern Kentucky, and the authorities should take the most prompt and energetic measures to provide against it.

The extremely low stage of all the rivers is highly favorable to these predatory incursions, and the scarcity of troops in the region threatened gives these freebooters a prospect of success and comparative immunity. There is, however, a reasonable prospect that they will find themselves sadly mistaken. Already expeditions are organized and organizing in Kentucky to meet and baffle their machinaens and inflict merited punishment on the [Correspondence of the New York Times.] MURDEROUS TREACHERY OF THE REBELS OF THE RAPID ANN .- As an instance of the heartless treachery of the enemy, just at this point I will relate the following fact, as one of many of a similar nature occurring within a few days. On the morning of the above occurrence the rebel pickets in front of the 6th Michigan advanced in a friendly way to the bank of the river, and were met in the same spirit by our men. A large number of men washed themselves in the river on both sides, and there was the usual jesting and bantering between the parties, the same as has frequently been recorded of pickets when not shoot ing at each other. Lieut. Segrix and a pri vate named George Brown, of the 6th Michi gan, finally started for the river to wash, and when near the bank the men on the opposite side, without giving any notice whatever, fired a dozen shots at them. Lieut. Segrix escaped uninjured, but his companion was wounded in the leg and arm, and George C. Not satisfied with this base act of treachery they fired at and hit one of the men who was carrying Brown from the field.

A LITTLE OVERWEIGHTED .- Those who visit the sick soldiers and do good in the hospitals, occasionally get a gleam of fun among all the sad scenes, for any wag who has been to the war seldom loses bis humor, though he may have lost all else save that and honor. Witness a sketch from life: C—, good soul, after taking all the little comforts he could afford to give to the wounded soldiers, went into the hospitals for the fortieth time the other day, with his mite, consisting of several papers of cut chewing tobacco—solace for the wounded, as he called it. He came to one bed, where a poor fellow lay cheerfully humber, where a poor fellow lay cheerfully humber. ming a tune, and studying out faces on the papered wall. "Got a fever?" asked C. "No, answered the soldier. "Got a cold?" "Yes, cold lead." "Where?" "Well, to tell you the truth, it's pretty well scattered. First, there's a bullet in my right arm—they hain't my left hand—that fell out. And I tel what, friend, with all this lead in me, I And I tell you

Although he had sold liquor, he had never drank anything stronger than sweet o, were very limited. He had never been outh of Albany or west of Schenectady. The great metropolis was known to him only by hearsay. Going to Troy with forty-five dollars, he loaned forty dollars, and took a mortgage upon some property, which he re-

IRON-CLADS, FORTS, AND BIG GUNS. Apart from the interest naturally excited by struggle so gallantly sustained, we find, in the incidents of the siege of Charleston, many lessons of the utmost importance to military and naval science. While we are theorizing, the Americans are practicing. Our speculations and experiments proceed side by side with the actual work of war across the Atlantic, and it behooves us to lose no opportunity of the static process of the static process. nity of testing our conclusions by the results of the experience there acquired. Unfortu-nately, this is not so easy a task as might be supposed. The Americans, from the very be-ginning of the war, have adhered to one par-ticular system with little deviation, and this system happens to have no parallel in our ex-periments. The comparison fails, therefore, for want of homogeneous quantities. The Americans have not tried our models, and we have made no trial of theirs. Besides this impediment, it is almost impossible to obtain from the seat of war details of such absolute accuracy as are required for calculations like these. Before we could balance the powers of attack and defence, as exemplified in any particular operation, we should demand an exact description of the armament on one side, and the protecting works on the other; whereas it is usually uncertain what guns are employed, or against what defences they are directed. We learn the results in general terms, but nothing more. Just now, however, we have received a re-cert which, although leaving much to be con-ectured or inferred, does undoubtedly convey remarkable piece of intelligence. It is an-ounced, on the authority of the General in command of the besiegers, that one of the Charleston forts—the famous Fort Sumpter—has been practically demolished by the fire of batteries at a range of two miles or upward. This is an extraordinary feat, and, as such, indeed, it seems to have been regarded by the combatants on both sides. The Federal General Gilmore makes a special report of it to his government, and communicates also an opinion of General Beauregard—a most competent judge—to the effect that the projectiles employed were the most destructive missiles ever used in warfare. But we are not told what these missiles were. Beyond the gen-eral compliment to their efficiency we get little direct information. From the terms in which they are spoken of, we infer that they were shells of some kind, and not solid shot, and we also learn that the bombardment lasted

We collect, too, that some at least, if not all of the batteries, were armed with 200pounder Parrott guns, but it is not certain what class or classes of ordnance are com-prised in that designation. Of the number of pieces actually employed against the fort from day to day, we have no authentic return; and though we know that a powerful squadron took part in the attack, we cannot tell exactly to what extent this co-operation was carried. Above all, we have no sufficient account of the defences of Fort Sumpter. We know that it was, in itself, an old-fashioned piece of brick-work, and that it had been recently strengthened by all the additions and supports which the ingenuity of the Confederate engineers could devise. Still, though cotton bales and similar coverings were doubtless useful, they could not turn a weak place into a strong one, and the shells from the Federal batteries appear to have pierced the walls through and through.

Before we offer any remarks on the opera-tions thus reported, we wish to give some account of another event of the war to which attention has not been sufficiently directed. A month or two ago a new Confederate irona new Confederate fron-clad, called the Atlanta, came out from Sa-vannah to engage two of the monitors—the Weehawken and the Nahant—engaged in the blockade of Charleston. The Atlanta was a larger and heavier vessel than either of her opponents, and carried six guns, whereas the monitors carried but two each. But the Atlanta's guns were only six-inch and seven-inch guns, mounted two on each broadside and two fore and aft, while the guns of the monitors, carried in turrets, were fifteen-inch monitors, carried in turrets, were litteen-inch pieces, throwing solid shot of 440 pounds weight. The Confederate ship commenced the action confidently with her pivot guns, and fired three shots at the Weehawken, but to little purpose. The Weehawken then replied with one of her monstrous cannon, and the first shot, we are told, "virtually decided It tore right through the Atlanta's side, and knocked down forty of her crew. Four other bolts followed, but at the fifth discharge the Southerner ran up a white flag, and the battle was over. It had lasted scarcely fifteen minutes, and was finished

The incident is recorded not only with a natural gratification on the part of the Federals, but as a convincing proof of the efficiency—which has been somewhat stubbornly contested-of the Dahlgren gun. We cannot deny its other side. The victors gave a specifica-t on of the armament and defences of the cap tured ship, and it turns out that the four inches of wrought iron plating with which she was armed, mean only two layers of iron and though creditable, we dare say, to the skill of the shipwrights working under difficulties, can hardly be regarded as an efficient

To return, however, to the general question

we find two great principles steadily preserved in American practice in artillery, the calibre of the gun and the weight of the shot are made as great as possible; in shipbuilding, the turret prevails over every other. These has not yet been proved—that only turret ships can carry very heavy guns. But neither one principle nor the other has yet been recognized in this country. We are building turret ships, it is true, among other models; but we have not given them any preference while such a thing as a four hundred pounder or a five hundred pounder gun has not been conceived. Our artillerists, indeed, have ex-plicitly condemned the very doctrine on low velocities—and prefer to rely on velocity rather than weight. It must be remembered however, as explanatory in some degree of the contrast between the two systems, that the Americans are shaping all their efforts accord-Americans are shaping all their efforts according to the exceptional requirements of a special emergency. They build their ships for coast work and harbor service only. It is by no means certain that any one of the iron-clads engaged in the siege of Charleston could be sent to sea in safety. They were intended only for such work as they have been performing, whereas the conditions of our experiments are far more extensive. Nevertheless, until our inquiries Nevertheless, until our inquirie have been aided by further evidence, it would be unwise to assume that we are right or that They have now been more successful; but it seems as if the shore batteries left them only an inferior part in the performance. Before t will be necessary to ascertain with accuracy what means were employed on each occasion on either side, and in what respects either the attack or defence had improved or degenera-ted between the first assault and the second. At present we see that the assailants have not only gained considerable advantages, but have achieved a very remarkable feat. If Fort Sumpter were a good specimen of a modern fort, we should say that forts had been fairly beaten by guns; but we know the fort was only a piece of patch-work, and we are by no means sure that it was effectively armed. We

AND BUTTERFIELD.—Last night, about eleven o'clock, the friends and admirers of Major-General Joseph Hooker, to the number of several hundred, assembled in front of the Burnet House to serenade "Fighting Joe." After the band had played several national airs, General Hooker appeared on the balcony, in full dress uniform, and was introduced to the people by Thos. G. Mitchell, Esq. The General, who was greeted with vociferous cheering, said:

The General retired amid loud applause and the band struck up the air "Rally Round the Flag." Loud cries for Major-General But-terfield, chief of staff to Gen. Hooker, brought that gentleman to the portico, who was also introduced by Mr. Mitchell.

Gen. Butterfield thanked the people for the greeting given him, and regarded it as con-tradictory to the report that the soldiers' cause in Cincinnati had but little sympathy. He was

"Kentuckians generally are not aware of the received as generally are not aware of the associations and prestige that give Bardstown pre-eminent rank amongst the lesser towns of the State. It was once the home and narsery place of genius, talent, and legal lore. The names and fame of Hardin, Rowan, Wickliffe, and Slaughter are familiar to the reading and intelligent public. But how few have heard of the brilliant, the gifted, but unfortunate Hays? The legal attainments, the biting, devouring sarcasm of Hardin; the stately elequence of Rowan; whether at the fo-rum grapling with the grandeur of enlightened reason, the more abstruse political sciences, or addressing a promiscuous audience of their fellow-citizens, on questions of State or na-tional policy, have given them a name and character which dims not with passing time. But the memory of the impassioned orator and poet, Hays, is fast passing from the mind of men. Few men of his country, or the age in which he lived, swept the poetic lyre with pobler leftier sweeter strains. Few who nobler, loftier, sweeter strains. Few, who gathered for the mental feast, such rich and garacter for the mental reast, such rich and glorious intellectual bouquets of thought or sentiment. Many years ago, a relative of the writer, Ion. Thomas Speed, of Bardstown, in speaking of Hays, remarked that "many of his cantes bore the impress of the most exalted genius, and were not surpassed by the most touching and brilliant passages of Childe Harold." Major Speed was himself a man of superior mental endowments, highly cultivated, and possessed far more than ordinary poetic tastes. His admiration for the poetry of Hays, as, indeed, for the prose efforts of this peculiarly gifted and eloquent Kentuck-iar, was unbounded. In one word, he re-garded him as the most intellectual man of the Common wealth.

I have recently learned that some of his poetry is still extant in manuscript form, and a few persons living who have a knowledge of his early and eventful life, his mental habits and labors, his productions, both of prose and poetry, and his sad, untimely death. May I not suggest that your fluent and classic correspondent, "Dora," shall collect and embody in a brief biography the important incidents of his life, incorporating with t such fragments of prose and poetry as may of one so gifted and yet so little known. The Taylor family were Union people, and the Hill family rebels. The Hills have been and are still in the rebel guerilla service, and Taylor has acted as a Union scout. About a week ago, Taylor, while on some business, was at one of the picket posts, when they were surprised by guerillas, and were all taken prisoners. Taylor and another scout who accompanied him, were at once recognized by the rebels, and they were surprised to find their old enemy, Hill, among them. It was at once decided to kill them, and they were both shot and left for dead, not, however, until the brutal nature of Hill was exhibited by castrating both of them. The men were found sometime attewards, and Taylor was yet alive and able to state who his murderers were. The mothers of the murdered and murderers are now living

Gazette and Commercial Proprietors—"Sour Grapes," &c.—Since the late battle of Chickamauga the Gazette and Commercial Editors have been entertaining their readers with editorials of their enterprise, the former with en-nishing the first exclusive account, and the latter in giving the fullest and fairest descrip-tion after the battle was over. It is refreshing to those in the secret to observe with what ol impudence the Editors aforesaid dress up poet lived and labored, where he and fell, and in the midst of those who were personally conversant with his history and wept over his tragic death. The literary and historic fame of Kentucky demands that the name of her gifted but wayward son should not be buried in forgetfulness, but inscribed on the roll of fame with those illustrious names that shall live while time endures.

A Gordonsville despatch of the 28th says the Federal force beyond the Rapid Ann is represented at 60,000 effective men. Opinions are conflicting as to whether there will be a fight soon or not.

Shanks eccepted the greenback offer, and was in the act of commencing the labor, when a notifi-cation was served upon him that if the Com-mercial was furnished with the account, as Tribune. A check for $100 or upward and the threat succeeded in inducing Mr. Shanks to break his contract with the Commercial plishing its purposes to publish the details as they appeared in the Gazette. Our boys maintained their usual courage and firmness, however, the kindly feeling always existing among Brazilians towards this country (and now more strongly developed than ever, since the recent affairs with Mr. Christie and the Brithounds (as they are), being stimulated with whiskey—and they steadily advanced (or rather staggered) on our men, whilst they had aline left to advance. It was a gory field, indeed—if anything, surpassing that of Stone's River! phnston's division was placed on the extreme cannot imagine; but it was out of the extreme left, in line of battle, for what purpose we cannot imagine; but it was out of the usual fighting programme, they belonging to the right wing. In this position we had to contend with a harassing movement of the enemy on our flank for sometime, and once succeeded in pushing skirmishers in our rear, thus placing us between two fires. This they accomplished by stealthily creeping around a field, whilst we were busily engaged with the enemy in front. By a dextrous and strategic movement we managed to withdraw our force from this dangerous position, but not until many a brave soul feit to rise no more. Colonel P. P. Baldwin, of the 6th Indiana, commanding the 9d brigade, fell from his horse in the earlier part of the engagement, supposed to be mortally wound-ed. He had seized a flag, which had fallen from the hands of one of our slain color-ser-geants, and, waving it aloft, amid the confusion, shot, and shell of the enemy, was gallantly leading his brigade to meet a charge of the enemy, when he fell, wounded, between the two lines. TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT THE MAXWELL BARRACKS. BARBACKS.

One of the most startling and fatal accidents occurred in our city yesterday that we have ever been called upon to chronicle. The scene of the sad disaster, so fraught with human suffering, was the unfinished building, situated on the corner of Church and Cherry streets, known as the Maxwell House, which is used as a barracks for our soldiers. At the time of the accident about six hundred Confederate prisoners were confined there, in the upper or fifth story. At the signal for breakfast, the prisoners rushed to the head of the stairs, on their way to the dining-room, all gayety and thoughtlessness. The rush was so sudden and their weight so great that the stairs gave way with a loud crash, and one hundred of the prisoners were suddenly precipitated, with a perfect avalanche of broken and scattering timbers, through two sets of flooring, to the

Two (whose names we have been unable to learn) were instantly killed, and the whole of them more or less injured. Many of them were frightfully disfigured, having their legs, arms, or heads broken.

or heads broken. Thursday, 17th—When we changed our The news of the accident spread rapidly through the city, and in a short time the streets in the vicinity were crowded with persons anxious to learn the extent of the terrible affair.

Guards were immediately thrown around the building to prevent the unfortunate sufferers, who were now being removed from the wreck, from being crowded. Ambulances were hurried to the spot, and the misguided and suffering Confederates, who had braved the dangers of many a hard fought battle to be maimed for life by an accident, were taken to the prison hospital. Here they were attended by our surgeons and nurses with all the kind and tender care that could have been shown a Federal soldier wounded under the stars and stripes fighting for the Union. The secesh ladies also waited on them with an untiring devotion that would reflect honor on a more right eous cause. One of the injured prismore right eous cause. One of the injured prisoners, a mere strippling, who had been captured several times before, remarked that he "would not care half so much if he had taken his breakfast."

In another part of the building were some In another part of the building were some Union refugees, lately arrived from Northern Georgia. Upon the occurrence of the fatal accident, some of the men rushed to the rescue among the foremost. One of them found among the sufferers three of his neighbors from Georgia, who had long since left their homes for the rebel service. Another refugee found his son, who had been conscripted, and of whom he had not heard in sixteen months. A third encountered a brother from Texas A third encountered a brother from Texas, from whom he had been separated eight years. Such are the sad and impressive scenes, which can scarcely be called strange in this unnat-

Though many of the prisoners are badly hurt and will be crippled for life, we are told that not more than four or five are likely to die from the effects of their injuries. We will here remark that the present effi-cient commander of the barracks, Captain Lakin, of the 89th Ohio, is in no way to blame for the accident, for he has frequently warned the inmates of the barracks against crowding around the stair-ways.

FRIDAY, GCT. 2, 1863. Gen. Lee, as appears from the Richmond Examiner, has officially communicated to the rebel Government that Howard's and Slocum's corps, of Meade's army, have gone to reinforce Rosecrans. If they have gone or started, Lee no doubt learned it immediately, for there are thousands of spies, many of them In the disguise of quiet Union citizens, and pothers in the disguise of Union officers and Boldiers, ready at all times to communicate to him whatever occurs within our lines, whilst it seems almost impossible for Meade to learn what is taking place within the lines of the list. The time and place of the applicant's enemy. If Lee is sure that Meade has been weakened to the extent of two divisions and not strengthened from other quarters, he may deem this his opportunity to strike a blow unless he himself has been correspondingly weakened, as we believe he has. We think, that, just at present, all is likely to remain "quiet upon the Potomac," and that the rebel information as to the depletion of the Army of the Potomac will have no other effect than to cause the sending of further reinforcements from the Army of Virginia to Bragg.

Gen. Bragg, according to the Richmond Examiner, makes out that he achieved a great success in the late battle, capturing seven thousand prisoners, thirty-six pieces of artillery, and over fifteen thousand small arms. Bragg is greatly given to exaggeration, but we are not at all encouraged by the fact that no reliable or direct intelligence as to particulars or even generals comes from official quarters on our own side. Rebel despatches from Atlanta report some important advantages in position as having been gained by the rebels since the battle, such as the occupation of Lookout Mountain by Hood's division, the occupation of the railroad and river below Chattanooga by Longstreet's command, and the crossing of the Tennessee river by Wheeler's cavalry, but rebel despatches from such sources are false nine times in ten or nineteen in twenty. If those above-mentioned were true, our situation would certainly be critical. We earnestly hope at any rate, that, it Rosecrans is to have effective reinforcements, he will not be long in getting them.

The Nashville Press, a conservative paper, has a judicious article in favor of the Kentucky platform. We are glad to see this. We have no doubt, that, whenever a civil election shall take place in Tennessee, the contest, if there be a contest, will be made by the whole body of the conservatives upon the Kentucky platform by general consent. It is the platform of doctrines which the great mass of the Union men of Tennessee, in spite of the industrious exertion of abolition influences, warmly and heartily approve, and any fair or even half-fair election will assuredly prove this fact. It is important, highly important, that Tennessee and Kentucky stand together, it is highly and equally important to both, and therefore we are glad to feel the utmost confidence that there will be no doubt or misgiving or hesitation on the part of either as to the ground, which, in standing together, they shall occupy.

Conservative Union Conventions in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and perhaps other Eastern States, have adopted the Kentucplatform, and we trust to see the same thing done in all the loyal States. This platform, if not the only one, is certainly the best, upon which the whole conservatism of the nation, in opposition to radicalism on the one hand and disunionism on the other, can unite. Partisan violence and a rage for ascendency may lead some sincere Union men in the loyal States to take position for a time on one side of this platform, and some to take position for a time on the other, some deviating in the direction are useless, and, if any explanation be conof Republicanism, and some in the direction of opposition to the prosecution of the end of the letter of application, so that they war for the suppression of the rebellion, but we trust that all of them will soon see, that, in a united effort to establish the principles upon which the government of the country shall be conducted, their truest, wisest, and most statesmanlike policy will be to take the Kentucky platform as the common battleground against all enemies.

We would not, except perhaps as a choice between very great evils, advocate the election of any man to the Legislature, any man to Congress, any man to the Governorship, in any State, or of any man to the Presidency of the United States, who repudiates the Ken-

APPLICATIONS OF OFFICERS AND MEN FOR

THE INVALID CORPS.—The following is the substance of the latest information from the Provost Marshal General's office defining the way that applications should be made for appointments in the Invalid Corps; it being understood that none are eligible but such as have been or still are in service, and who have become unfit for further active service

may have been heretofore enrolled for transfer must, in order to get their appointments from the Secretary of War, still make their individual applications. There must be a letter in the applicant's own handwriting, addressed to Col. J. B. Fry, Provost Marshal

General, Washington, D. C., which applies for an appointment as --- (stating what) in the Invalid Corps; and the letter will then go on to state in order as follows:

applicant cannot furnish such a discharge paper, or if it does not state that the discharge was granted for disability contracted in the line of duty, then he must substitute a join certificate from the surgeon and commanding officer of his regiment to the same effect.

This same kind of joint certificate must be furnished when the applicant is still in service, and then it must embody the same information that is required above from the surgeon of the Board of Enrolment, and must also state that his disability was contracted in the line of duty and is such as would entitle

HARDIN, deceased, we will sell, to the highest bidder, on the premises, on WEDNESDAY, the 7th day of October, 1883, the FARM late the residence of said decedent, containing 390 acres, situated in Washington county, 3½ miles east of Springfield, on the Springfield, Maxville, and Harrodsburg road, and on the waters of Pleasant Run and the Beech Fork. The tract adjoins the lands of Joseph Spalding, R. McAtee, Joseph Hardin, James Green, Theodore B. Spalding, and Dr. Stephenson, and is of superior quality and in a fine state of cultivation. Almost the whole tract is under fence and in cultivation or grass. It is well-supplied with water by several never-failing springs, wells and ponds, and by Pleasant Run, by which it is partly bounded. The buildings and other improvements are good. The road from Springfield is turnpiked to a point near the land, and is desirably situated in reference to other roads, fine farming lands, and local advantages generally. The title is undoubtedly good and will be warranted to the purchaser.

Tenma—A credit of one, two, and three years will be given for equal payments, bearing interest from day of sale, for which a lien will be reserved and notes with personal security required. But a purch ser desiring to pay his bonds before due will be permitted to do so.

Valuable Farm for Sale.

I OFFER FOR SALE MY FABM, adjoining the town of Cadiz, county seat of Trig county, Ky., containing 967% acres, 359 acres well enclosed and in a good state of cultivation, 200 acres Little River bottom land, well adapted to the growth of Tobacco and all kinds of grain and grass. The balance of the land is well timbered, and most of it enclosed with good new fence. There are on this farm good barns sufficient to bouse and cure 40 to 30 thousand pounds of tobacco, good negro cabins and other necessary out buildings. The Cadiz, Canton, and Hopkinsville Turnpike runs through the centre of the tract to the Cumberland River, nine miles distant.

I offer for sale also my home place, three miles N.W. of Cadiz, and reven miles from the Cumberland, containing 1,200 or 1,300 acres, 400 of which are well enclosed and in a good state of cultivation. The Muddy Fork of Little River passes nearly through its centre, and, together with several never-failing springs, make it very desirable for a stock farm. It produces grass fixely and all kinds of grain and tobacco. This farm has a large and commodious dwelling on it, with good negro sabins, out-houses, &c., and three large tobacco barns 44 by 60 feet each, also a good mill seat, with an inexhaustible supply of good timber for making lumber.

In our notice yesterday of the new and beautiful army publication entitled "THE Annals of the Cumberland," we mentioned with an expression of surprise the absence of the name of Major-General Crittenden from the roll of chiefs given in the volume. Our attention has since been called to the preface of had ventured to Memphis in disguise, but was he work, in which this omission is suitably acknowledged. We quote the preface on this

Although intended as a picture of our army, it is far from being complete. We have used but a small portion of attairable matter and portraits; and many of our best and most notable generals—as Crittenden, Reynolds, Wood, Granger, Mitchell, Morgan, Turchin, and other high officers—we are unable properly to present in this volume. Ample material is left for a second volume of the "Annals," should its publication prove desirable.

We are further assured authoritatively, that, if the strong desire and strenuous application of the author and his friends could have prevailed, General Crittenden would have figured appropriately in the volume. In plain language, the overruling obstacle in the case, as those who well know General Crittenden will readily comprehend, was his own invincible repugnance to the honor. We are very happy to make this correction, which is due to all concerned, and especially to the author.

THE THEATRES.—At the Louisville Theatre this evening the historical play of Henry VIII. will be produced for the benefit of Mrs. and Mr. Conway. As the piece is now curiled for representation, the pageantry is all omitted. In no instance has Shakspeare painted more life-like characters than those of Henry, Woolsey, and Katherine, and none of his plays contain as many passages which have become familiar by repeated quotations. Indeed, it is a play of character rather than of passion, and was written in the full maturity of the poet's powers. It illustrates the fall of Woolsey, Katherine, and Buckingham, the ambitious priest, the virtuous Queen, and the haughty noble. The trial scene, the interview between Woolsey and Cromwell, and the dying hours of the Queen are majestic and full of grandeur. The comedy of Asmodeus, or the Little Devil's Share, with Mrs. Conway as Carlo, will also be presented.

Mrs. Emma Waller takes a benefit at Wood's, and produces the Duchess of Malfi. her rendition of which is a superb piece of acting, almost too natural in its horror to be e. She appears also as Kate O'Brien, he comedy of Perfection, and Miss Kitty Blanchard introduces one of her attractive

THE OLD FIFTEENTH KENTUCKY .- The people in this vicinity are of course anxious to ear how this regiment fared in the late bate beyond Chattanooga, for it is the old regiment raised here, numbering formerly among its officers, Colonel Curran Pope, Lieutenant-Colonel Jouett, Major W. P. Campbell, and Colonel Forman, all of whom are dead, and Lieutenant Garretty, who was wounded at Perryville.

This regiment is now in Beatty's brigade, Negley's division. It was in the hottest of the late battle, and Lieutenant Garretty, now here, has learned from his brother, a drummajor in the regiment, that not an officer of it was either killed or wounded. A few of the men were killed, and a good many wound-

A NOBLE CAUSE .- As will be seen by reference to the proceedings of a meeting held at the Mayor's Office last night, published elsewhere in to-day's paper, a very important and raseworthy move was made for the relief of he sick and wounded soldiers of Gen. Rosecrans's army. We hope that the call of the committee upon our citizens will meet, as it richly merits, a warm response at their hands. No more praiseworthy undertaking ever elicited the commendation of a good people, whose hearts throb and ache for the poor soldiers suffering from wounds received in the defence of our common country. Everybody that can should contribute liberally.

We understand that Colonel Orlando H. Moore has been appointed Post Commandant of Knoxville, East Tennessee. He is the same who was formerly Provost Marshal of this city. The terrible repulse of Morgan at Tebbs Bend by the gallant Colonel and his brave troops will be long remembered by his numerous admirers and friends here, and they will rejoice to hear of his appointment, a fitting recognition of his distinguished and efficient services. The day is not far distant, we sincerely hope and believe, when Colonel Moore will wear a star upon his shoulders. No officer in the Federal army more richly deserves such a coveted honor.

THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA REFUGEES .-olonel Marc Mundy yesterday took possession of the old Marble Hall, on Fifth street, in which he quartered one hundred and eighty of the refugees from Northern Georgia and Alabama recently arrived in this city. These ugees are in the most destitute condition, re being subsisted at the expense of the Government. They are greatly in need of blankets and articles of clothing to make them comfortable. Their sufferings appeal strongly to the generosity of our citizens, and immediate steps should be taken for their relief.

The concert given at the Masonic Hall last night for the benefit of the Organ Fund of Grace Church was well attended, but, in consequence of the inclemency of the weather, many parties were unable to be present. We hope therefore that the programme will be repeated at an early time. We can safely promise an audience even larger than that of last evening, for the amateur singing was unusually attractive, and the applause was heartft. Let us by all means have a de capo of the whole delightful entertainment.

POSTAL CURRENCY RETIRED .- Two millions and a half of postal currency have been retired. The issue of the fractional currency which is to take its place was to have commenced on Friday, and six or seven thousand dollars' worth were printed, but its appearance not being satisfactory its destruction was ordered, and the issue has been indefinitely

COLONEL STRAIGHT AND HIS OFFICERS.—In consequence of the solicitations of Morgan's men, now in our hands, to the rebel authorities in behalf of Colonel Staight's command, who were turned over to the authorities of Georgia, to be dealt with by the State law, all of Straight's officers have been removed to the Libby Prison and placed among the Union

FINE TOBACCO.—Messrs. Spratt & Co. sold yesterday forty-three hogsheads of Todd and Christian county tobacco, making an average -lugs and leaf-of $17 08 per 100 pounds. We think sales like these will make our New k tobacco friends open their eyes very

ISONERS ARRIVED .- Six hundred rebel ners of war arrived on the Nashville last night, and were transferred to the tary Prison. They were from the front, were captured by Gen. Rosecrans's army he battles of Chicamauga. Gov. Buckingham, of Connecticut, has cided that a person who has been exempted om the operation of the draft is still liable

A general exchange of all prisoners aken prior to September 1st has been effected excepting negro soldiers and their officers. After all our own soldiers are exchanged there will be a large balance against the rebels. The new cartel was agreed on at City Point, Sunday last, between General Meredith and Commissioner Ould.

A steam boiler exploded on Saturday fternoon in the establishment at Buffalo for merly known as the Swartz Iron Works. The building was demolished, and thirty persons were supposed to be buried beneath the ruins. Seventeen were soon afterward got out, but so injured that most of them will die. The guerilla General Richardson, who has so long been a terror to the people of West Tennessee, has been taken prisoner. He recognized and arrested. Brigham Young's new temple at Salt Lake is built of granite, nearly completed, and the most splendid structure of the kind in the country. A substitute, named Call, has been shot t Troy, N. Y., by his guard—a Wisconsin coldier-while attempting to escape. The wound inflicted was ugly, but not dangerous. Mr. Wm. N. Brown, proprietor of the 'Pewter Mug" saloon, New York, was shot on Saturday by James N. Nixon, a returned soldier, and died in less than ten minutes. It is said that Stanton furloughed 1,500 soldiers to help matters in Maine before the

A WAR ITEM .- Thirty-six hundred coffins have been sold in Pittsfield, Mass.

INQUEST No. 147-Held September 30, 1863, n the body of Peter, slave of Jason Chamerlin, of Middletown.

The negro, who had been in the service of Mrs. P. Chamberlin, in the country, came to the city and representing himself as a contraband, was sent by the military authoritie to work in the Government bakery at Jeffer-sonville. Mr. Chamberlin learning the fact, obtained permission to bring him home, and lodged him in the jail in this city where he whipped him. The negro subsequently died. A jury called rendered a verdict that the death was from the effects of the whipping. Believing that the whipping did not cause the death, I summoned another jury and directed a post mortem examination, which was con ucted by Drs. JAMES C. GILL, C. J. C.

[From the Bichmond Whig of the 22d.] REBEL ACCOUNTS OF THE BATTLES OF OFFICA-

MAUGA. GENERAL BRAGG'S VICTORY. We suppress exultation at the thought of what yet remains to be done and the possibility of losing all that has been gained by failing to complete the work. Situated as Rosecrans is, the victory that does not disperse then our victory will be without profit, and we have only to mourn that so many brave men If he is permitted to hold Chattanoogs have died in vain; and chiefly that the galla Gen. Hood has sealed his faith with his bloo Rosecrans must not only be beaten in battle, but he must be destroyed or driven from East Tennessee; otherwise the battle had as well ed. The brave fellows still fit for duty are reported as in the best spirits for the next fight.

A NOBLE CAUSE.—As will be seen by referstrike at the very vitats of the Confederacy. He holds a region pestilent with dissatisfaction that needs only the presence of a Yankee army to ripen into full-blown treason. He holds the country that army to ripen into full-blown treason. He holds the country that must supply meat for our army, niter for our powder mills, and coal and iron for many of our manufacturing establishments. The possession of that country is of indispensable necessity to us. It is the prize for which Bragg is contending. Until he has won it, we can but rejoice with fear and trembling over what he has done. Should he win, it will be the most superb achievement f the war.
All the churches in Marietta have been taken by the medical department to be used as hospitals. DESPONDENCY OF THE REBELS-BRAGG'S RE-MOVAL DEMANDED.

[From the Richmond Examiner, Sept. 22.] Two years ago our army was encamped at Bowling Green, and our batteries on the beetling cliff of Columbus scowled defiance at Cairo; now we hold a position on the borders of Georgia, and await the enemy's advance in the interior of Mississippi—Chattalooga is in the enemy's hand, and the line of the Tennessee, fortified by the hand of nature, and, as we are told, susceptible of defence by a small body of treops against a numerous army, has been yielded without an attempt at resistance. In a battle the loss on both sides s about equal; in a retreat it falls upon the etreating army.

The wily and cautious Rosecrans will not fight unless supported by superiority of num-bers. He risks nothing in the hope of brilliant victory and rapid triumph. His strategy is an epitome of the war. If Rosecrans is to be defeated he must be attacked in the position where he has lost no time in fortifying himself. The confidence of soldiers in their eaders is essential to the success of an army. It may be unfortunate, but it is notorious that General Bragg has not succeeded in inspiring his army with this feeling. Cannot a suitable man be found to command the Army of the West, on a field where so heavy a stake s to be lost or won?

[From the Richmond Whig.] A fierce and bloody battle, lasting two days, has been fought on the Chickamauga river, a few miles from Chattanooga, between the forces of Bragg and Rosecrans. Thus far it has been indecisive, though the advantages are on our side. Twenty pieces of artillery, twenty-five hundred prisoners, and the possession of the battle-field, are the evidences and fruits of victory; but the situation of affairs in that quarter demand greatly more than this-Rosecrans's army must be destroyed or driven out, else we fight to but little ourpose. His lines still confront ours, and unless he can be routed he will be reinforced, when we will fall back, and Murfreesboro will be repeated. Gen. Bragg, of course, understand the control of the control of the control of the course, understand the control of the control of the course, understand the control of the course, understand the course of the course, understand the course of lerstands this, and knows the necessity ushing his present advantage to a decisive esult. Whether what he has done is important, depends upon what he may yet do. The most complete and valuable victory of the war seems within his reach, if he has

GEN. BURNSIDE AND HIS ORDERS -So much has been said about the neglect of Gen. Burnside to reinforce Rosecrans prior to the late hattles, that many are unwillingly disposed to believe that the former disobeyed positive or-ders to that effect. The facts, however, seem to be that Gen. Burnside was ordered to move up the East Tennessee valley to Virginia, and even into that State, and was not ordered to reinforce Rosecrans until the 14th inst., when the Government was advised that the enemy were about to attack the army of the Cumberland in large force. Almost insurmountable difficulties stood in the way of any rapid march of Burnside's forces down the valley

At a meeting of the citizens, held by an especial call at the Mayor's Office on Thursday evening, Oct. 1st, His Honor the Mayor was chosen Chairman, and Arthur Peter Secretary of the meeting. Fashionable millinery at Mrs. M. D. Gil-

"We wish we had come here at first" is the invariable exclamation of persons seeking good and beautiful furs when they are shown Green & Green's stock. "We have been looking at all the houses and have seen nothing like these goods." Persons seeking or children's furs will save much trouble by going at first where the largest and best stock is kept. Another advantage in trading with this house is that they call all furs by their correct names.

The sale of the Panorama of the World, advertised by Mr. C. C. Spencer, takes place this morning at his auction rooms, together with a piano and household furniture.

A fine milch cow and a superior harness horse will be sold at 10 o'clock precisely.

Mr. C. C. Spencer requests us to say that the dwelling house on Second street, be tween Walnut and Chestnut, will be unre servedly sold on the premises this afternoon at four o'clock. The location is central and

IMPROVEMENT IN DENTISTRY .- Vulcanite, as a base for artificial teeth, may be said to have passed the ordeal, and its utility in the dental art to have become established. While it possesses many advantages over metal plates, it is not wholly without objections, the principal one of these being its bulkiness. This heretofore unavoidable objection is entirely overcome by a recent improvement (which overcome by a recent improvement (which has been patented by Dr. J. A. McClelland) and plates are produced possessing all the advantages claimed for vulcanite, while they have the desirable additional one of neatness combined with the strength of metal. MORNING DESPATCHES. The Harbor Defences of New York. The Russian Reception in N. Y. City. Gen. Schofield not to be Removed. Movements of the Guerilla Mosby. The Arrival of the Chouteau at Cairo

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day, a report was made by the committee to examine the harbor defences, that a vesse would be exposed to a raking fire of eight hundred guns of the heaviest calibra passage into the harbor, and they didn't see rows. The harbor is in a perfect state of de-

The reception given to the Russian officers was most enthusiastic. Fifteen regiments formed the escort, and the number of spectators along the route is said to have reached 100,000. At the City Hall the official welcome was tendered, and the guests reviewed the military. The whole affair passed off

A special to the Post from Washington says the Missouri delegation has had an interview with the President to-day. It is, however, considered certain that General Schofield will not be removed.

The rebel assumption that General Burnside was driven out of Jonesboro is false. If he withdrew it was for strategetic reasons. Gen. Robert Anderson states to the War Department that he has yet in his possession the flag he hauled down from Sumpter. It has never left his custody.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. The Alexandria News says that Moseby, while on his way down on Monday with his gang of guerillas, passed within half a mile of a detached camp of the 2d Massachusetts Cavalry, whose headquarters are at Centre-ville. He seems to have no fears of his capture, and finds little trouble in penetrating our lines. On Thursday last he captured, at Springfield, two teams of four mules each. CAIRO, Oct. 1.

The steamer Chouteau, which was damaged by fire below Columbus, Ky., a few days ago, prived here to-day. All the Government Trustin Polk and family have arrived, en oute for St. Louis. General Sherman's corps is moving. Destination unknown.

[Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] 1ST BRIGADE, 2D DIVISION, 23D ARMY CORPS, LOUDON, EAST TENNESSEE, Sept. 9.

The long-mooted question has been settled, and a large Federal force, under the command of General Burnside, now holds in peaceable cossession the most of East Tennessee. At our possession the most of East Lennessee. At our advance the foe fled with precipitation before us: They abandoned the most important points, which they had not only regarded as their strongholds, but the abandonment of which involved the necessity of surrendering nearly the whole territory of East Tennessee, with all its defences of rivers and mountain footnesses which has been styled "the Switzwith all its defences of rivers and mountain fastnesses, which has been styled "the Switzerland of the Confederacy." In their hast to get away the enemy had only time to destroy the bridge and rolling stock of the railroad at this point, which had been previously prepared for conflagration. The man who applied the torch, which so suddenly wrapped in flames the mentificant structure which in flames the magnificent structure which spanned the Holston river at this point, paid the forfeit of his life for his reckless daring. A well-directed shot from one of the pieces o he 1st Tennessee battery sent him suddenly sundered and mangled corpse to his final account. Among the stores left behind at this point and on the line of railroad in this vicin-ity were several thousand bushels of wheat, a number of bags of salt, and a considerable quantity of new clothing. Between this point and Knoxville they left two locomotives and a number of freight cars, &c.

The 23d army corps left their several places of rendezvous in Kentucky, and, moving in three columns, entered this State at three different points, forming la junction at Montcounty seat of Morgan. The 2d division of this corps moved from near Leba-non, Kentucky, on the 17th of August last, under command of Colonel O. H. Moore, of he 25th Michigan, and the 1st brigade of division was under command of Col. Gault, of the 16th Kentucky, both of whom enjoyed the esteem and confidence, as was justly their due, of their respective commands.

At Columbia, General White overtook the advancing column and assumed command of the division, Col. Moore being the Commandant of the first brigade. The obstacle n our way, especially in the esteem of the 6th Kentucky, were regarded as trifling, compared to some of our former campaigns. This regiment had made two several campaigns through the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, extending their march to the Virginia line, o the headwaters of the Big Sandy River. They were agreeably surprised at the goodness of the roads, and the absence of anything like a really serious obstacle to the progress of the march of the division or its accompanying The most formidable difficulty encountered was in the ascent of the mountain this side of the Cumberland River, where the artillery wagons, and all those comprising our extended train, required the aid of a well-manned prolong to be fastened to them, that they might be hauled up the steep ascent and over the shelving rocks, which looked so defiant in their aspect. The 16th Kentucky had award ed her the lion's share of this labor, which was performed with a will by the brave hearts and tout hands of our boys, who seemed "to have mind to the work, which was successfully performed, under the supervision of our in-domitable Mejor, Sam. White. We entered the State of Tennessee about six miles this side of Albany, once a flourish-ing countyseat, but now a deserted and dilaplated place, which has been, to the extent of is desire, the headquarters of that most infa ous, thieving, cutthroat brigand chief, Champerguson. We made the ascent of the Cumberland Mountain without much difficulty, and from this onward our roads, with but little exception, were good.

We had not extended our march far into the State before we had evidence of the prevalence of the most intense loyalty, and, in lence of the most intense loyalty, and, in consequence, the most severe suffering. We had previously seen nothing like it. It is unconditional, and without regard to any of those questions of policy which have been to damaging to the unity of the Union men in Kentucky, and of which the masses here are blissfully ignorant. They kindle into rapture at the sight of our advancing columns, and are moved to tears at the sight of the Stars and Stripes, that "banner of beauty and 1,000 BUSHELS PRIME TIMOTHY SEED;

are moved to tears at the sight of the Stars and Stripes, that "banner of beauty and glory," which symbolizes the institutions of our country. We were hailed with tears of joy and with shouts of rapture as their deliverers and defenders. Notwithstanding the many vacant, deserted houses, the many exiles from their homes, which has resulted in so extensive a depletion of population, there were groups of men, women, and children at every turn to greet us with expressions of joy every turn to greet us with expressions of jo and gratitude, and to tell of wrongs and suf-ferings which were calculated to touch the hardest heart and to make the ear to tingle.

Never, perhaps, has patriotism and wrath been so combined—gratitude and vengeance so commingled in expression, as by this loyal, down-trodden, and long-suffering people. It would be impossible to narrate the numerous incidents of interest in this connection of which we were witnesses. One or two may serve as illustrations of their unrestrained and rustic manner in the expression of their feel-

> On the day we left Montgomery, the head of our column was startled by the voice of an aged woman, shouting "Glory to God in the nighest!" whilst, with streaming eyes, she ex-ressed her gratitude that she had lived to see the deliverers of her State, and, with claspsee the deliverers of her State, and, with clasp-ed hands, as she pursued our advancing com-mand, she prayed most fervently that the God of battles would be with us to prosper and defend and preserve us. Her petitions were ever and anon interrupted by the narration of ther suffering, which was made only the more telling by the presence of her husband, who limped behind her, as he leaned with one hard upon a staff, whilst the other rested pon the thigh of his wounded leg, which was made to support more than its wonted share of his body, he having been severely wounded in the other leg by some dastardly prowling rebel, by which he was made a cripple for life. She would appeal to him for the confirmation of the truth of her statements in regard to their sufferings, and then point him to our soldiery as those who would avenge his wrongs and be his future security and defence. At one time, being near Majo General Hartsuff, whom she readily recogni ed as chief in command, she male him the sub ject of her petition, which he acknowledged by respectfully lifting his hat from his head and holding it in his hand the while. Taking the scene altogether, it was an interesting and moving exhibition of patrictism, gratitude, through the mountains, until he was driven from the State. She upbraided him with his thetts and murders, imploring us in the name of everything sacred not to release him. of everything sacred not to release him.

In the above I have simply given a detail of facts, and written no one line for the purpose of sensation. I have not detailed the extent to which the loyal men have been robbed of their hats and shoes which have been taken, from their heads and feet, and have even had their pantaloons taken off them to cover the nakedness of the rebel soldiers, and, in the absence of other goods, they have been compelled to make themselves wearing apparel pelled to make themselves wearing apparel necessary for immediate use out of their bed-clothes. More than half the population of the counties through which we passed, as we met them, were without shoes—both men and women, old and young, faring alike in this regard. How they can be supplied for the winter I cannot see. The health of our troops is excellent. The records here are invited to excellent. The people here are jubilant at our presence, and if this people are not protected in their persons and property, it will be no fault of General Burnside.

MORE ANON.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN CANADA .- A tragedy arising from conjugal jealousy occurred in the township of Bayham, Elgin connty, Canada, last week, which has created intense sensation in and about the locality of its enactment. The facts, as far as we can learn, are as follows: A small cottage and farm of twelve acres, one mile and a half from Vienna, is occupied by a man named Ward, who is a retired navy captain. He has been, though many years married, a confirmed libertine. Domesic broils were the consequence. His wife, as high-toned as he himself, charged him with infidelity to her; he retorted with upbraidings for jealousy and lack of confidence in him. Recently, while Ward was at Toronto, Mrs. Ward received an anonymous communication assuring her that her husband had sold the property, and had made arrangements to leave or England, accompanied by his paramour. leaving herself and daughter destitute, and that it was his intention to come back from Toronto in a day or two, take what plate and valuables she might possess, and leave in the night. She at once determined on a woman's revenge. Procuring a revolver, she loaded three of the barrels with ball, and secreted it in her room, her husband being expected home the next day. She next went to Vienna and purchased half a pound of arsenic, saying it was to poison rats, which she placed in her

Matters had proceeded thus, and her husband returned as expected, when Mrs. Ward rushed into his presence, and asked him why he was going to desert the family. He replied evasively, and to the effect that "he would go where she would not follow him." The words scarce came out of his mouth, when she drew the revolver, taking aim at his shoulder. The ball passed through the flesh, lodging in the opposite wall. She fired the other two barrels in rapid succession, but missed; and, although felled to the ground by the first shot, Ward quickly escaped out of the house. The enraged woman, having flung down the pistol, rushed up stairs, and swallowed the arsenie which she had previously mixed in a tumbler of water and piaced at her bed-side. She ex-pired in four hours after, in the greatest agony. Ward never came back to the house till after his wife was buried, and is said to express sat

PORT OF LOUISVILLE. ARRIVALS YESTERDAY.

Froma Floyd, Cin. Undine, Mad. Robin (propeller), Cin. DEPARTURES YESTERDAY. Emma Floyd, Cin. Undine, Mad. Shamrock, Mad.

The water in the canal yesterday evening was full twenty-one inches by the mark, having fallen in twenty-four hours one inch. At Portland bar there s about thirty-four inches water in the channel. The condition of matters out of the Ohio and in the Mississippl is not much changed in the last few days. It rained almost constantly throughout the day yester-day, though the fall of water was not heavy. The rain has not yet ceased, and the probability is that the river will fill up somewhat with water in the next few The St. Louis Republican of yesterday says that the stern-wheel steamer John Bell, Capt. John McCord, bound from Missouri river to St. Louis, struck a stump or log at the foot of Howard's Bend, above St. Charles, at 9 o'clock on Monday evening, and sunk. She was making a crossing, involving a short turn, and struck her stern just forward of her rudder-post, breaking it in. She was headed for shore, and an effort was made to run her on a reef, which only partially succeeded. She went down with her bow on the bar, and her stern in twelve feet water. It is thought she can be raised. The steamer had on board nearly five hundred bales of hemp and several hundred sacks f wheat, &c. She was valued at about $15,000, uninured, and owned by Capt. John McCord and others. Capt. Davis has expended three or four thousand dollars on repairs to his fine stern-wheel steamer Lib-erty, now lying at New Albany.

The La Crosse is undergoing thorough repairs at Capt. Liter's new steamer will be launched from Dowerman's yard at New Albany on Saturday.

St. Louis.-The Union of yesterday says: Sr. Louis.—The Union of yesterday says:

From what we could learn from our exchanges, it seems that the Henry Chouteau took fire in the hold after leaving Columbus on Saturday moraing last. As soon as the folumbus on Saturday moraing last. As soon as the fire was discovered, the hatches were battered down, steam turned into the hold to smother the fire, and she was landed at Wolf Island. The Black Hawk was sent to her assistance, and her cattle wore taken ashore in safety, and also her deck load. By arthe Chouteau will probably come here government, and will be forwarded on another steamer.

The Black Hawk brought up the deck load of the Chouteau to Cairo. She reports that boat as being still in a dangerous situation. After it was thought the fire was extinguished, a hole was cut in the deck to put down a pump to take out the water, and the fire again showed itself. Capt. Williams still hopes to save her, but thinks the chances are small.

ON THE INFIRMITIES OF youth and maturity, disclosing the secret follies of both sexes of all ages, causing debility, nervousness depression of spirits, palpitation of the heart, suicidal imaginations, inveluntaty blushings, defective memory, indigestion and lassitude, e.c., comprising 250 pages, and illustrated with upwards of ene hundred and thirty engravings. It is a truthrul adviser to the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain secret doubts of their physical condition, and who are conscieus of having hazarded the health, happiress, and privileges to which every human being is entitled. With Confessions of a Boarding-School Miss, a College Student, and a Young Married Lasty, full of romance and thrilling interest.

Young men who are troubled with weakness, generally caused by a bad habit in youth, the effects of which are dizziness, pains, forgetfulness, sometimes a ringing in the ears, weak eyes, weakness of the back and lower extremities, confusion of ideas, loss of memory, with melanchy, may be cured by the author's NEW PARIS AND LONDON TREATMENT.

We have recently devoted much of our time in VISITING THE EUROPEAN HOSPITALS, availing ourselves of the knowledge and researches of the most skilled Physicians and Surgeons of Europe and on the cortinent—such men as CIVIALE, LENOIRE, RICARD. RRECHETEAU. ACTON, and CURLINGS, of the Fr ach and English Hospitals. Our tour extended through France, Italy, Germany, Hollsand, England, Ireland, Scotiand, and Wales, visiting in our route the principal hospitals in Paris, London, Rome, Venice Vienna, Dresden, Berlin, &c. We have been amply repaid by the additional knowledge we have acquired in the treatment of various diseases to which we have directed our attention. Those who place themselves under our care will, whether male or lemmale, now have the full benefit of the many NEW AND EFFICIENT REMEDIEDES which we are enabled to introduce into our practice, and the tice.
